CCLI Song # 7005966

1 I sadly confess that the story of grace
Has ceased to inspire or amaze.
The things of the world, they have captured my heart,
And inside I am falling apart.

2 I'm ashamed to admit that I've hidden from You-
I've twisted and shaded the truth.
The picture I've drawn of what's hidden inside
Was to build my renown and my pride.
But You call me to come back to Your side,
You've promised that Your arms are open wide.

C Chorus:
This is all I have,
I've thrown my love away.
Though I am a mess
You love me anyway.
What love, great love,
Come sweep me off my feet.
What love, great love,
You love me anyway.

3 I see Jesus there, bearing all of my shame,
My idols are listed by name.
He looks up from the cross, in the myst'ry of grace,
I see love in the tears on His face.
As nail-scarred hands reach in welcome out to me
I feel my stubborn idols turn and flee.
